COULDN'T RUN A TRAIN.

Ed Snyder Tried It and is Now Lodged in Jail.

Ed Snyder filled himself with old rye yesterday afternoon and tried to take possession of a C. & W. M. train. He mounted a freight car and began to give signals to the engineer for breaking and making up trains. The conductor ordered him to get off the car, but he claimed possession and continued his signal. When the train reached the Grandville avenue crossing the conductor asked Patrolman Emmet Smith to take the officious man off the car, but when the officer remonstrated with him he told him to go to. Smith made an attempt to take him off the train, but Snyder resisted on the opposite side and ran as a lively gallop up the street. The patrolman caught him and the prisoner resisted arrest in a vigorous manner. Smith, in order to subdue his obstreperous prisoner, used his billy with telling effect. Snyder's head was lashed in several places, and the blood trickled down his forehead, making him appear like a red bandanna anarchist when he arrived at the police station. County Physician Penwarden dressed his wounds, and the prisoner was registered at the station as drunk and disorderly.

CONDUCTOR WHITE ARRAIGNED.

His Case Will Be Contested in Police Court.

George H. White, the street car conductor who refused to accept a transfer from a passenger who boarded his car as the wrong point of transfer, and ejected him for non-payment of fare, was arraigned in police court yesterday morning on a charge of assault and battery. He pleaded not guilty, and his examination was adjourned until August 9, at 9 a. m. This case is considered to be an important one by the Street Railway company and the public, as it involves the right of the company to keep its patrons strictly within the rules and regulations established relative to the use of transfers. Based, the complainant, after having received a transfer from a Scribner car conductor for the South Division street line, changed cars on Monroe street while the cars were running on parallel tracks. According to the rules governing the use of transfers he should have waited until he reached the head of South Division street before making the change. It is expected the case will be strenuously fought by both sides.

DESERTED AFTER SIX MONTHS.

The Story of a Heartbroken Wife to Be Told in Court.

Carrie Gray of the township of Spencer, by her attorney, D. C. Lyle of Cedar Spring, filed a bill of complaint in the circuit court yesterday, asking that her marriage with Arthur Gray be dissolved. They were married in October, 1928, and her husband took her home to his mother where they lived until the following April. He then took her to her parents, telling her that he was going to Greenville in search of work and as soon as he found employment he would send for her. Shortly after his departure she received a letter from him stating that he could never live with her again and he has since proved the truthfulness of that statement. In October following his acts of desertion a child was born to the complainant and the defendant has not contributed anything toward the maintenance of the child or mother. The complainant states that she was young and inexperienced in the ways of the world at the time of the marriage with the defendant, being only 19 years old.

Schotzke Was Acquitted.

A case of larceny against Edward Schotzke held the attention of a jury in police court nearly the whole afternoon yesterday. He was arrested a few days since on complaint of John Schotzke, who accused him of having stolen a baggy from the complainant. The vehicle was an old dilapidated piece of workmanship valued at $15. When the defendant's premises were searched by Detective Giam a vehicle corresponding to the one claimed to have been stolen was found. When the case was tried yesterday the defendant testified that he took the baggy, by permission, from the alley in the rear of Foster & Stevens' store on Monroe street and his statement was corroborated by clerks in stores in that vicinity. The jury could not agree on a verdict and by consent of the attorneys the case was given to Judge Haggerty, who acquitted the prisoner.

Held for Examination.

When the case of drunkenness against Jacob Greenwald was called in police court yesterday morning, it was dismissed on motion of the city attorney in order that a hearing on the more serious charge of attempting to commit murder might be heard. As published yesterday morning, Greenwald was arrested on a warrant, charging him with having attempted to shoot his wife. When he was arraigned on this charge, he waived the reading of the complaint and demanded an examination, which was set for August 8 at 9 a. m. He went to jail in default of $500 bail.

Will Test the Hack Ordinance.

The cases of the city against Clem Seits and Jay Baker, two hackmen arrested for not complying with the city ordinance relative to hack drivers' licenses, were adjourned in police court yesterday until August 10 at 9 a. m. The defendants are in the employ of Ed Gill, who has paid the license required for his hack business. The city ordinance besides requiring the owner of a hack to procure a license provides that each driver shall pay a tax of $1. Mr. Gill will make a test of the case before against his employees for the purpose of determining the validity of the ordinance.

Charged With Grand Larceny.

Deputy Sheriff Leonard arrested Mary Snyder yesterday in Wyoming township on a charge of larceny. Mary is a single woman 25 years old and was employed as a domestic at the hotel in South Grand Rapids. She is charged with having stolen $25 in cash and a number of handkerchiefs from the hotel last Monday. On the evening following the theft Mary quit her employer's service and went into the country to recuperate. The commission of the theft was at once attributed to her and she was arrested. She denies the truthfulness of the charge.

Film-Flammer Arraigned.

Clinton C. Bentley, the lemonade vendor, charged with film-flammering a countryman out of a ten-dollar bill was arraigned in police court yesterday and pleaded not guilty. His examination was adjourned until August 4 at 9 a. m.

Circuit Court—Part II.

JUDGE ADJUT.

Thomas M. Peirce et al. vs. John W. Clotterhouse, assumpsit; stay extended ten days.

Various Court Notes.

The charge of assault and battery against Frank and John Farish was nullified in police court yesterday by an order of the prosecuting attorney.

Foot, Reed & Co. began a suit in the circuit court yesterday against Edward J. Reynolds for the collection of certain promissory notes, aggregating in value $5,000.

Judge Haggerty held Harry Fay to the superior court yesterday for trial for the larceny of a cloak from Millie Newcomb last April.

WOMAN OF FASHION.

Surely one can buy almost everything for almost nothing these days. The bargain counters in the city stores are vying with each other in prices that are very low. Just take a run into town for a day or two, and you will be surprised, if you enter the shops, to find them crowded in spite of the summer exodus. This morning I entered one of the extraordinary confusion, and more reckless pushing than usual. For, though New Yorkers are proverbially good-natured and obliging in a crowd, I think the New York shopper must be exempt. For she has absolutely no conscience and no feeling of any sort. She simply steps over her victim, and never so much as casts a backward glance to discover the extent of the damage wrought. After I had succeeded in making my way past a great number of these heartless beings with only a few unimportant injuries, I discovered that the center of interest was a table piled high with soft woolen checks and stripes, marked at 25 cents a yard, worth 60 cents. How easily we are all taken in! Anything marked at 50 cents and worth 95 is passed by with perfect indifference, but something marked exactly by the same, but with the estimate of 50 cents or $1 put on it, is snatched at by all of the women, in a truly hawk-fashion. It is certainly a most harrowing ling sight to watch them swoop down upon the salesmen, and snap their prizes before some one else shall intercept.

But when a woman can buy gauze shirts for nineteen cents apiece, in all the dainty colors; stockings all sizes, and styles and colors for the same price; ten ties for ninety-eight cents, white shirts for forty-nine, gloves for fifteen, dark blue skirts from two to three dollars, shirt-waists for sixty-nine cents, blazers for two dollars and a half, sailor hat with ribbon band for twenty-five cents, and last, but not least, shot silk parasols for forty-nine cents, it seems as though no woman could possibly have any trouble in procuring a summer outfit for next to nothing. Then gingham can be had for five cents a yard, outing cloth for eight cents, dimities, fresh and sheer, for twelve cents; shirt-cambrics for four, and a great many other materials for about the same price. So that it wouldn't be a very difficult matter to get up a summer outfit at a low cost. Gingham makes very pretty, indeed, with the addition of a little fine white embroidery, and then a gingham washes so well that it can always be kept fresh.

A pretty challenge which I have just been admiring is of a very deep shrimp pink. The left side is caught half way up and bordered and hung with narrow black velvet ribbon, of which there is a considerable quantity on the round bodice as well.

I also liked a blazer suit that is going away this week, of a deep rich fawn, speckled all over with pale turquoise dots. A turquoise silk waist matched the dots, and the jacket fronts were made very short so as to display a good deal of the pretty shade.

The girl that wears this has one of the airiest and most exquisite summer gowns I have yet seen. It is made of pure white gauze over a delicate mauve silk. I think it is the prettiest for its perfect simplicity. The skirt is a gathering, and has something of a train. The bodice is simply shirred on a standing collar, and gathered in at the waist under a silver belt. She will wear an all black hat with this gown and white gloves and shoes.

A quaint gown for afternoons is made of pink crepon, and has for a trimming on its close fitting skirt two ruffles at the edge, then three bands of black velvet ribbon quite far apart, and then two more ruffles, so that the trimming comes almost half way up. The bodice is perfectly plain and tight fitting, and is trimmed with lace about eight inches deep, which starts at the collar in the back and is carried down in an inverted V to each side under the arm; then it goes round straight till the two ends almost meet in front, where they both stop, and being like a genuine petticoat, while little black velvet bows stand over them like sentinels.

Or do you like white linen? That makes a charming afternoon gown, with the skirt embroidered in a pretty vine pattern all around, and edged with a narrow flounce of white mousseline de soie, and a bodice of the same, simply plaited.

A fishing party that starts out next week will include at least one very pretty and rather daring costume. The young maiden that will wear it is going in for genuine work; she's bound she'll catch something, and that her costume will not interfere with a free indulgence in the sport. So her slightly-draped skirt of dark blue linen reaches only a little below the knees. Her waist is of ecrú linen, tight fitting, trimmed with a deep lace collar. The collar is kept down, so that it can't fly or become troublesome, by dark blue straps over the shoulders which are fastened at the top of the skirt by big buttons. Her bag is slung across her shoulder, she carries her net in her hand, and with her broad-brimmed hat of the same heavy lace that trims the dress, shading well her face, she is ready to battle with wind and wave, and even fish.

Ribbons do not seem to be falling from grace. They still have the smile and favor of the feminine public. Why? I saw one dress the other day that was one mass of little black velvet bows, scattered all over. And the hat worn with it was truly imposing. It was a broad-brimmed, drooping leghorn, with three long loops of palest yellow laid flat upon the wide brim in front. Edging the two outer loops were two black velvet tips also fastened down tight, and where the three yellow loops joined sprung three more stiff black tips. EVA A. SCHWENK.

THE TITAN OF CHASMS.

A Mile Deep, 13 Miles Wide, 317 Miles Long, and Painted Like a Flower.

The Grand Canyon of the Colorado river, in Arizona, is now for the first time easily accessible to tourists. A regular stage line has been established from Flagstaff, Arizona, on the Atlantic & Pacific railroad, making the trip from Flagstaff to the most imposing part of the canyon in less than twelve hours. The stage fare for the round trip is only $20, and meals and comfortable lodgings are provided throughout the trip at a reasonable price. The view of the Grand Canyon afforded at the terminus of the stage route is the most stupendous panorama known in nature. There is also a trail at this point leading down the Canon wall, more than 6,000 feet vertically, to the river below. The descent of the trail is a grand experience, the climbing the Alps, for in the bottom of this terrific and sublime chasm are hundreds of mountains greater than any of the Alpine range.

A book describing the trip to the Grand Canyon, illustrated by many full-page engravings from special photographs, and furnishing all useful information, may be obtained free upon application to John J. Byrne, No. 723 Madison block, Chicago, Ill.

A Positive Fact.

Ladies, do not delay your valuable time by waiting and suffering, but secure a bottle of Dullian's Great German Female Uterine Tonic and be cured of all monthly trouble either in old or young. It is the very best preparation I ever prescribed in my extensive practice. It has given the best results in the greatest number of cases of female troubles of any medicine that I ever used. I do not make a practice of using or recommending patent medicines, but this remedy is prepared by a very competent physician and chemist of my acquaintance and I can cheerfully and conscientiously recommend it as the best.

Some remarkable cures of deafness are recorded by Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Never fails to cure earache.

Fatal neglect is little short of suicide. The consequences of a neglected cough are too well known to need repeating. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures a cough promptly. Sold by all dealers on a guarantee of satisfaction.

My physician said I could not live, my liver out of order, frequently vomited greenish mucus, skin yellow, small dry humors on face, stomach would not retain food. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me. Mrs. Adelaide O'Brien, No. 372 Exchange street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Very Much Surprised. I have been afflicted with neuralgia for nearly two years, have tried physicians and all known remedies, but found no permanent relief until I tried a bottle of Dullian's Great German Lintiment and it gave me instant and permanent relief. 25 cents per bottle. Signed, A. B. SWELL, Hamilton, Mich., April 11, 1891.
